November Evening Meeting

The November 5, 1987 Evening Meeting will be held at Machinist’s Hall at 7:00 p.m. Visitors welcome! Our speaker, Carol Adelman, is a charter member of MQ and is well known for her quilted clothing, blue printing on fabric, and stenciling techniques.

Near the end of August, Carol attended the Great British Quilt Festival held at Nostell Priory, near Windfield, in the north of England. There were around 200 quilts entered, one of which was Carol’s own quilt, “Pipes.” She will be showing slides and telling about her visit there during the show.

Carolyn Sidebottom is a quilting teacher and lecturer in the Minnesota area. Her quilting experience began in Kansas and upon arriving here seven years ago she joined Minnesota Quilters.

Her slide lecture program is titled “Mystiques of the American Patwork Quilt.” The slide presentation will provide information to help unlock some of the mystery surrounding Patchwork design and nurturing a deeper appreciation for what one sees when looking at an American Patchwork quilt. Her lecture will include sections and design (geometry), construction, block names, folklore, maintenance, and restoration techniques.

Degen’s Doodles

Don’t you just love fall? The gardening is finished for another year, all the apples are harvested and either cooked or given away. All of my friends have eaten lots of apples in every form possible; pies, sauce, juice, crisp, and cider, you name it we’ve done it to the apple this year. I really am glad there won’t be any next year. Not only does the tree need a rest, so do we.

I attended the Minnesota Quilters Fall Get Away in Little Falls. It is the first time I have been able to take part in the getaway and I’ll never miss it again. It was wonderful to get away from work, cooking, the phone, and just quilt, and visit with quilters. A good time was had by all. Mark the first weekend in November ’88 on your calendar—we have the Little Falls St. Francis Convent reserved for that weekend.

For all of you who inquired as to why Minnesota Quilters was not given credit on Channel 2 for the Georgia Bonstel Quilting Shows, I looked into it and found that MQ had not given any money to Channel 2 for 15 months. Due to the change of months in which the Quilt Show was held we just now have the funds again. At the last Board of Directors meeting we voted to give Channel 2 and Pioneer Public TV in Appleton, MN, which serves the western part of the state, $1500 from the show proceeds. Thanks to the hard work of the entire ‘87 show committee.

Happy quilting!

Ann

The Sampler
The Rose Star Quilt

Note: Mary Wood is the subject in this story. She is an 82 year young native and we will be researching her quilts.

As I lay in my bed I sniffed the air. It was crisp like an apple that snaps and splatters as you bit into its bright crimson skin. It was August 31 and it was the first inkling I’d had that fall was just around the corner. It was Sunday and I felt like a trip to church.

The new preacher in town was giving his first sermon. He was a tall, handsome chap, with a mop of dark hair atop his strong frame. His voice, too, was strong. He quoted scripture from Luke 14:12-14.

“When you give a dinner or a banquet, do not invite your friends or your kinsmen or rich neighbors, lest they also invite you in return, and you will be repaid. But when you give a feast, invite the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind, and you will be blessed, because they cannot repay you. You will be paid at the resurrection of the just.”

His sermon was based on that scripture. It was a good sermon. It deserved some thought.

As we left the church, I saw my friend Mary, who I know had recently lost her life’s companion to cancer. I was so glad to see her. I expressed my regrets at her loss and I promised to call her some day.

But would I call her? I had planned, too, to send her a sympathy card, but I hadn’t. Would I call her? Promises, promises, what good are they?

We drove home on this lovely day and in the back of my mind was that star quilt show at Winona. As I fixed our lunch I asked my mate if he would enjoy a drive to Winona and a quilt show. Already, I knew the answer. Negatory.

Then I set to thinking about whom to invite. My daughter? My neighbors? My quilting friends?

Thinking aloud, I said to Mike, “I think I’ll try that sermon on for size. All those people will repay me with car rides, but if I ask Mary—well, she doesn’t drive and she can’t repay me. Isn’t that what the scripture said?” I heard a mumble of relief, “Sounds like a good idea to me.”

I called Mary. “I’m calling you sooner than I expected. Do you like quilts?”

The response was quick and positive. “Yes, I like quilts!”

As I picked up my little gray-haired friend who had spent 40 years or more as a country school teacher, I said, “Are you game for a detour through Whitewater State Park?” “Yes, I love Whitewater State Park.” This lady had only one attitude. She was rarin’ to go. She was ready for life. Her students had been lucky ones.

As we headed out past Sekapp’s orchard, we passed the appliers I’d only imagined this morning. We drove through the gorgeous green countryside. We saw snatches of red sumac and touches of gold in the trees. A groundhog came waddling across the road as we drove slowly through the park. We spoke of memories we had of Whitewater—she more than I—since she is a native. As I glanced sideways, I saw smiles and sparkles. The park was dear to both of us.

We skittered on up 74. As we neared the wee village of Weaver we saw a sights to behold. We stopped the car and scrambled out. We marveled as we watched a dozen gliders soaring softly up and down like invisible, noiseless roller coasters. It was an unexpected dividend. After this free show we headed for Highway 61 south, the Mississippi on our left and the bluffs on our right. This day was made for us! I felt good I’d asked someone who couldn’t repay me.

As we reached the quilt show I explained to my friend, “Now, Mary, all of these quilts are Star quilts. Each one of them includes a star or stars of some kind.” I felt I should explain quilts to this lady. I was so excited at the prospect of the show that I barely heard her softly say, “I have a rose star quilt my grandmother made.” I sort of acknowledged her—sort of…”

I had left the real world for the quilt world. Yet, I’d hear a remark once in a while. “This lady knows how to use color.” I’d nod. Then I’d hear, “My, these corners meet like they’re supposed to.” And I thought to myself, “I guess she knows a little about quilts.”

We came to one she really liked, a pink one, and she quietly said again, “I have a rose star quilt my grandmother made.” This time I responded. “Maybe I could see it some day.” In my mind I was thinking, “Rose Star? What is she saying? Is there a block with a rose, then a block with a star? Or is there a star with a rose in the center? A rose star quilt? It was a design I’d never known—well, she probably doesn’t know the correct name. Now she had my attention, so she threw this one at me—”I’ve got another star quilt made out of scraps.” She struck a chord! I’m a scrap quilt nut. “I’d love to see your quilts some day, Mary.”

As we drove home on Highway 14 we rejoiced our time spent together. We swung up to the Sekapp orchard. When I debated the applies I should buy, she quietly advised, “Dutchess are always good.” She, too, bought some. Visions of apple pie and spicy applesauce danced in our heads. As we pulled into her drive, she asked, “Do you have a minute? Would you like to see my rose star quilt?”

“I’d love to!”

As I sat in her little home she went somewhere in the house to get the quilts. I admired her lovely, well kept, old furniture and I said so. She explained proudly that the table had belonged to her lawyer grandfather.

Then she opened the sack which held her quilts. What I saw was a white quilt full of rose colored stars. We counted them—10 rows by 12 rows. That meant there were 120 eight pointed stars set in white six-inch blocks—enough to boggle the mind. It was all hand pieced, hand quilted in mint condition. Of all the quilts I had seen this day, this was the best. It certainly was a rose Star quilt—one that would live in my memory. Mary said, “Sometimes I put it on the bed when I have company.” Today she had company as she spread it lovingly on the spare room bed for me and for her to admire.

She also showed me her star quilt made of scraps of tiny triangles. She noted, “Every corner meets just like they’re supposed to.” Yes, Mary knew about quilts.

As I bid her goodbye, I thanked her for a delightful afternoon and for the best Star Quilt Show of the day. I must remember to tell that young preacher that Luke 14:12-14 is pretty much accurate. It's just that sometimes you don't get to wait for resurrection day to get paid.

NEEDED:
Collection Quilt Piecers

We need MQ members who are willing to piece one block for the Collection Quilt. These blocks are all pieced with straight seams and no applique. We will be happy to mail pieces and directions for a block to anyone who cannot make it to the monthly membership meetings. Otherwise, pieces and directions for the blocks will be handed out at the November meetings. If you can help, call 636-9894 or write to: Jeanne Tanamachi, 1887 Pleasant St., St. Paul, MN 55113.

When we arrived at St. Francis Center, we were greeted by the entire Get-A-Way committee, DeAnna Gehant and Julie Lind. These two women did the work of a six person committee, and what a superb job they did! Kudos to DeAnna and Julie!! They introduced us to Sister Roberta, who supervised the Center, spoiled us, and kept us supplied with tea, coffee, cookies, and rich, gooey brownies. These three people catered to us the entire weekend. The facilities at St. Francis were wonderful. Everything was located in one building and it was spotlessly clean.

The lounge was large enough to hold all of us comfortably while we relaxed, quilted, worked at sewing machines or just talked and laughed...that we did a lot! The size of the room allowed everyone to participate in the conversation, fun and foolishness, and our projects could be dropped and left undisturbed while we went to eat another scrumptious meal or take a class.

Classes were held on Saturday morning and a few of us played hookie to get in some serious quilting on projects that were "overdue". Ann Degan's class came back with some precisely drafted patterns and the knowledge of a new skill. The quilters in Jannie Spears' workshop worked "slavishly" to reate new concepts from familiar block designs. Arlene Fitzpatrick's students stitched and snipped, creating vibrant log cabin tulips.

The lectures were full of information. Marcia and Tom Stevens' machine quilting is intricate and beautiful, and it gave even the most dedicated hand quilters some second thoughts. Helpful tips were gleaned from Carolyn Abbott's lecture on quilt finishing. My lecture had to start with an explanation as to why my slides were being projected backwards...not upside down, just backwards. (How typical of a dyslexic person...) My lecture was about making our own documentation and professional presentation albums to record information about our own quilts.

The weather was perfect for a quilter's Get-A-Way...cold, damp, and rainy. Not one case of the quilts about staying indoors to quilt! Some did sneak out for a little walk between showers while some of us took advantage of the Center's swimming pool and took a long, luxurious and therapeutic swim. (We didn't even have to leave the building to go to the pool.)

All of this and door prizes, too: one for everyone. The most envied door prize was won by Rosalee Ezati, an hour long massage given by one of the Franciscan Sisters who is an occupational therapist. See what I mean about pampering? We were all so envious.

As the weekend drew to a close and after my lecture, about 20 of the Sisters joined us for a special show-and-tell held in their honor. Several of the Sisters turned out to be quilters!

We packed our cars and started home. I'm sure the conversations on the homeward journey were about the wonderful and joyous weekend we had all shared. As I was driving, Mary Lou said, "Look, another rainbow!" We were amazed at seeing two rainbows in one weekend, but I guess we shouldn't have been surprised. After all, it had been a perfect quilter's weekend.

*The other answer? Twenty-seven quilters who gained 5 pounds.
Notice to Small Quilt Groups!

Several times a year the names and addresses for the small quilt groups are put into the newsletter, just as they are this month. So that we can start off the 1988 listing correctly, please send me any changes now so that I can make the necessary corrections in my file. Thank you so much.

Bulletin Board Ravelings

News from the first of the fall newsletters from across the country seem to carry several of the same opinions. First, that all quilters are glad to be done with the heat of a very hot summer. Secondly, that quilters may leave home to vacation but their quilting goes with them. In fact, one quilter even took her iron with her in their van to plug in at night to iron her pieces. And lastly, the quilters seem ready to settle in for a fall and winter of serious quilting activities and the ever present hope to finish those projects.

I have received catalogs for needlework supplies. These sound like interesting sources of material. Check the bulletin board to see them...I look, but please do not take them with you so that all may see them.

Christmas Block Exchange!

For those members, new and old, who wish to participate, there will be a Christmas block exchange at the December meetings. The block should be 12" finished and in Christmas colors (12½" unfinished, including a 1/4" seam allowance). We also have a Christmas ornament exchange and ask that the ornaments be hand made.

The Daytime Meeting is December 11th. The Evening Meeting is December 3, 1987, so start working on your blocks and ornaments!

December Daytime Luncheon

I know the leaves are just finished turning but Christmas is around the corner. We are planning now for our December daytime meeting. It will be held at Machinist's Hall on December 11 at 10:00 a.m. A luncheon will be catered. Cost will be $3.25 per person. Cash or checks are payable to: Jeannette Root, 309 18th Ave. South, So. St. Paul, MN 55075.

Please plan early. I need an accurate count for the caterer early in December. Merry Christmas!
