Joen Wolf from Featured-October Meetings

Joen Wolf from will be our guest lecturer and workshop teacher for the Fall Lecture Series which will be held on October 3, 4, and 5, 1991 at Crystal Evangelical Free Church, 4225 Gettysburg Avenue North, Minneapolis, MN.

She will give a lecture Thursday evening, October 3rd at 7pm titled, “Who Says We Don’t Have A Right Side of Our Brain?” On Friday morning, October 4th at 9:30 am, her lecture will be “Glorious Landscapes.” Both of these lectures should be very interesting and present us with some new ideas.

The cost of the lectures are $1 for members and $3 for non-members. Members be sure to bring your membership card to avoid being charged the non-member fee at the door!

Joen will also be giving two workshops on Thursday-Saturday, however both of these are filled. We’ve had an excellent and quick response by our members.

Please bring your Maple Leaves, Geese in the Pond and Flying Geese or Fall theme quilts for show and tell.

We are looking forward to our October guest lecturer and teacher, and we’ll see you at the meeting at the Crystal Evangelical Free Church.

Correction of the July minutes; Minnesota Quilters will not be responsible for any contract over $500 that is not signed by the President.

Looking for a Small Quilt Group?
If you're looking for some time to work on your projects, consider joining the West End Quilters! This new group will meet in St. Paul's west end every third Wednesday of the month at 7 pm. It'll be an opportunity to meet other quilters, exchange ideas, and make some headway on those quilt projects. For more information, contact Jean Cutis-Neitz at 690-1452.

Pattie's Ponderings
The "Holiday Season" is upon us once again. I've been busy with a fall quilt for my living room. Now it's time for my first holiday quilt to be up on the wall—for Halloween. It will be followed by my special Thanksgiving quilt which is a new one this year. When it comes down, it'll be time for a Christmas quilt. One of my friends is quilting an appliqued Hanukkah Menorah. Are you busy quilting away too?

There are dozens of books, classes, and magazine articles to help us through this holiday season. If only there really was a "drive-through" where we could "buy time" like those funny TV commercials. I'll take an extra month of uninterrupted sewing and quilting time somewhere during each Holiday season.

Happy Quilting,

Pattie

Patricia Black

MQ'ers Recognized in Magazine
The winter issue of Miniature Quilts (available October 28, 1991) will contain an article by Minnesota Quilters Sonja Palmer and Polly Kowitz. The article is about miniature quilts they make to dress wonderful replicas of antique doll beds made by Sonja's brother, Roger Sorenson.

State Park Centennial Quilt
The State Park Centennial Quilt which recently was on display at the Minnesota State Fair in the DNR Building is on the move again.

The Quilt will be on display in the Dayton Hudson Department Store window 700 Nicollet Mall. The display will begin October 7 and continue through October 21st.
Let’s Raid Northfield Again!
The organized raid via bus will head to the 5th annual quilt show presented by the Northfield Quilters. The show is at the Ralph Haugen Theater at St. Olaf College in Northfield, MN on Saturday, October 26, 1991. There will be 100 quilts to view, voting on Viewer’s Choice and a small quilt auction will be featured.

We will meet at 8:45am at Rosedale Shopping Center - Hwy 36 and Fairview. We will meet at the overflow parking lot at the southeast corner of the center. Bus leaves at 9:00am sharp. Arrive home approximately 3:30 pm.

Our plans are to attend the show from 10-11:30 am and drive into downtown Northfield for lunch of your choice, shopping and browsing. There are 3-4 antique stores in town, several restaurants and numerous Boutiques. Jacobsen’s which stocks a complete line of quilting fabrics, books, stencils and notions will give you a 20% discount. We will leave Northfield at 2:30 pm and arrive home approximately 3:30 pm.

Small Quilt Auction - 1991

Due to a misunderstanding of the MQ Board policy, the Small Quilt Auction prices were not published in the August 1991 newsletter. It has always been our policy to print the winning bids for the small quilts; the information is a matter of public record since we are a non-profit organization and because the total proceeds from the auction are designated for educational contributions (public TV, Scholarships, etc.).

Getting to Know You
Patricia Black

Family: I have two daughters, Kimberley and Tamara. Tamara is still in high school and lives with me. She has completed two small quilts for her Snoopy dolls a few years ago, but her busy schedule now leaves very little time for anything but embroidery.

My heritage is rich in quilters. My great-grandmother Anna Marie Johnson and her two daughters - my grandmother Maude Johnson Basler and my great aunt Myrtle Johnson Bang - made many quilts together. I have a Grandmother’s Flower Garden quilt made by the three of them which was given to my parents 50 years ago as a wedding gift. My maternal grandmother, Eline Krogestrand also made quilts in her prairie claim shack. To my knowledge only one of her quilts is still in existence--a relatively “new” Dresden Plate from the 1930’s.

Interests: I began my life as an artist by studying formal oil painting. I moved over into fashion design and have been drafting patterns since the late 1960’s. My interest in garments has remained as my main focus, and quilting has added a fantastic new method of garment construction and embellishments.

Quilting: I began quilting in 1981 with the help of a former MQ'er named Sharon Elliott who worked at St. Mary’s Rehabilitation Center where I was a Chemical Dependency Counselor. She was always quilting or doing applique work on her breaks and lunch hours and I was fascinated. Then I saw my first chevron quilted jacket and I was hooked. Sharon steered me to the Country Peddler where Jeannette Michel helped me choose 20 fabrics for my first jacket. After one visit to the shop and seeing all the quilts on the walls, I was forever enmeshed in the world of quilts and quilting.

My severe arthritis makes hand quilting a chore that is hard to complete, so I guess my worst quilt is the one that has been in the frame for 7 years-- I’m slowly but surely getting it quilted at 10-12 stitches per inch, but it has become a family joke as it sits in the living room winter after winter.

As a person who always has a primary interest in fashion design with quilting as a new addition that I dearly love, my primary efforts have been towards applying quilting and applique techniques (as well as hand-dyed and hand-painted fabrics) to garments which I design and draft patterns for. I am currently working on a large group of garments for a one-woman show at the Lakewood Gallery in February 1992. The show is to be titled “Modern American Fiber Arts as Applied to Garments of Ancient and Ethnic Cultures”, which is a very fancy way of saying the basic flat rectangles and triangles used to construct the ethnic and ancient garments are much easier to quilt and applique than a “modern” fitted garment with darts and curved seams.

Philosophy & Feelings: Quilting has always filled a place in my soul—an urge to create with my hands. I love to sit and quilt in front of a fire on a cold night; the peace of the moment coupled with the creation of simple and beautiful things creates a fulfillment that is hard to equal. Loneliness and emptiness can be assuaged by quilting; quilting gives one time for inner reflection and quiet thought—time that is often missing in our busy lives today.

In addition to Minnesota Quilters I belong to several groups:
Brooklyn Center Quilt Group
Diverse Directions
Brightondale Quilters
Surface Design Minnesota
National Surface Design Association

My membership in Minnesota Quilters and the friends I have made through this organization are very important to me. I am grateful to belong to such a large organization dedicated to quilting. We are so lucky to have so many talented and professional; members who are always willing to share with the rest of us. I’ve never come to a meeting with a quilting dilemma that didn’t get solved; I have always been able to find someone to help me and show me the way. I believe that is what make MQ so special—people helping people. I’ve made some dear and special friends over the past years as a member of MQ, and I’m looking forward to meeting many more people in the next year as I serve in the Board as your President. It’s an opportunity for me to give back some of what I’ve been given in the past.
