Fabric Exchange in February
Is there anyone out there interested in another fabric exchange? We plan to have the second annual fabric exchange at both the evening and day meetings in February. The exchange will be 3 1/2" x 3 1/2" squares. That means these squares will be compatible with the 3 1/2" triangles we exchanged last winter.

The packaging format will consist of 20 different squares in each plastic bag. (10 light prints & 10 dark prints). Some of you may prefer to exchange solid colored fabrics instead, so make up your bags accordingly. DO NOT MIX solids and prints together in the same bag. There will be two separate exchanges.

Put together as many bags as you wish to exchange but please no more than 20 bags per person. Put your initials or other mark on your bags, so you won't bring home your own fabrics.

In the meantime, while you are working on your other projects, remember you still have your fabrics on the cutting board and rotary cutter in hand to cut an extra 3 1/2" strip and set aside for the time you assemble your bags.

You may participate in either or both the solid or print fabric exchanges.

The exchanges will take place at the end of the February meetings.

Halloween Storm Sewathon
Four day I sewed as It snowed and snowed
While trapped in my sewing room tower
Cutting, sewing, pressing, creating by the hour
Thank goodness the bulbs had all been dug
Leaves all raked from trees so bar
Yard things put away with time to spare
Used up thread spool after spool
All by myself, I've no kids home from school
Strips, blocks and lace to make 3 trees each a skirt
Busy fingers, creating brain, working till they hurt
Then muslin dolls in calico dresses
Topped their heads with spanish moss tresses
Took precious time to affix lost shirt button YUK
Fed 7 dogs, 2 cats, our cold weather gluttons
Then back to patchwork quilting for jackets galore
Of wild colors, one of a kind never found in a store
Found all kinds of treasures in fabric room stashed
Amazing collection, quite a few should be trashed
Canceled meetings and snowed out boutiques
By a Halloween trick storm mega unique
The time flew by fast as the snow piled up high
But then life had to resume when the snowplow came by Better get ready for November Show and Tell
Get quilt block of the month finished as well
Cause Minnesota Quilters meeting is just a few days away...

Pattie’s Ponderings
1992 is here already.....stretched out before us like a huge clean piece of paper waiting to be written or drawn upon; or better yet, like a full new bolt of muslin just waiting to be pieced into twelve quilts of the year along with all the colored fabrics of the events of our lives.

I'm excited about 1992. Like most of you, I'm impatiently waiting for my mailman to bring me my brochure for the June Quilt Show in Rochester. Ruth Bartsch and Mary Hanson, along with their terrific committee, have prepared a wonderful array of experiences for us to choose from. Although I'm privileged to sit on the committee, I still want to be able to mull over that brochure and agonize over my choices for a month prior to registration. Trying to decide will especially hard this year because I'd like to take about 10 classes in the available 3 days. I think if I ever get to heaven, it will be a never-ending quilt show with classes every day of the year.

Our regular monthly programs this winter and spring are going to be special, too. Our Education Director and Evening Directors, as well as the Lecture Series Committee, have outdone themselves in scheduling varied and diverse programs for all tastes.

New Year's Resolutions have never been my favorite thing. But this year I'm going to make some new ones. I'm not going to punish myself be resolving to diet down to 100 pounds, or sterilize and organize all my closets, or even to be a perfect mother. I think that instead I'll give myself a gift-- I resolve to take some time for me--time to sew and quilt and smell the roses. Now that's a New Year's resolution I can handle--and maybe even keep.

Here's wishing all of you a wonderful and prosperous New Year.

For Judy
Judy Mahnke died October 30, 1991 of cancer, she was 50 years old.

To many of us she was our quilting friend; loving the classes, quilt trips and having an all day workshop in her home on a Saturday. We took our quilt group meetings to the hospital and nursing home at her request; hanging quilts in her room, getting her input to how to finish the blue and white one and others--.

With each thread Judy sewed love into her quilts. Its that love which has enriched our lives with warm memories of her.

Judy we love you,
The Cotton Spoolers

Handy Tips...
...Formula For Removing Pencil Lines from Quilts: Always pre-wash fabrics before making a quilt. Then, to remove pencil lines make a mixture of: 6 T. rubbing alcohol, 2
T. water, and 6 drops dishwashing liquid - the white kind such as Ivory. Dip a soft toothbrush into this solution and brush fabric to remove the pencil marks.

...From "Quilt" magazine, Fall 1991, use a wood toothpick
when turning under tiny, or stubborn, pieces for applique.

The 1992 Raffle Quilt

The Raffle quilt for the June 1992 Minnesota Quilt Conference is complete and is indeed a Tomorrow's Treasure as well as today's. It is also a labor of love, pieced by 12 Twin Cities area women headed by Janet Schutze and Jeannette Root. It was quilted by 40 women from all over the state.

It is a Minnesota Log Cabin Sampler done in the Rainbow solids. One block is the state flower, The Lady Slipper, designed by Lois Beving of Spring Valley. Other blocks include Flying Geese, for Rochester the site of the conference, Bear Paw, Pine Tree, Indians Trails, a star pattern, and several others. They all seemed appropriate choices for a Minnesota quilt.

We truly thank all who placed even one stitch and we are anxious for you all to see the treasure and be able to purchase raffle tickets. Look for this information after January 1, 1992.

Sincerely,

Barb Feldt, Anne Knox, Vera Oestreicher

For the Home:
Commemorative Quilts 1875 - 1960
This exhibition of approximately 25 quilts will be presented at Minnesota Museum of Art from April 12, 1992 to June 28, 1992, in conjunction with an exhibition of historical pottery of the same dates.

In pioneer days every woman was expected to have a baker's dozen quilts finished by the time of her marriage, although it was considered bad luck to make her own wedding quilt. This was usually done by friends and neighbors and presented to her as a wedding present. Certainly many utilitarian quilts were made for simple warmth stuffed with anything from wool to corn husks. However, few of these have survived after constant use. What has been preserved for us are the quilts that were made for special occasions and reserved for special proud use. The events they commemorate are varied and immensely interesting. There are of course wedding quilts and baby quilts. There are also family and friend signature quilts which document either a family's genealogy or community ties. Other events as the leave-taking of a friend, the arrival of a new pastor, the election of a new president or even the involvement of the United States in a war.

This exhibition will seek to trace the importance of these events in women's lives through their expression in their most common folk art - the quilt. The exhibition will attempt to investigate whether or not these events of importance have changed over the eighty-five year span of the exhibition and what we can deduce from these changes, and also what is important about what has not changed. The exhibition will focus on the five state upper midwest region in an effort to investigate the live of women in our region in an effort to investigate the lives of women in our region while also exploring the cultural diversity of our region.

Furthermore, various traditional patterns will be demonstrated. As a quilter designs a commemorative quilt several conscious decisions are made such as whether or not to use a traditional pattern and style and how to personalize it to reflect the event or person to be remembered. The composition and its shapes and colors are all carefully planned making the successful quilt an aesthetic masterpiece. The exhibition will present a variety of interesting compositions, styles and methods while investigating the process of change in style alongside of the change in emphasis of events commemorated. The intrusion and acceptability of the machine in quiltmaking will be addressed as well as the move from furnishing to art work in quilt trends.

Another component of the exhibition (subject to funding) would be a small installation of contemporary quilters working in traditional styles and methods. A didactic section showing how various quilts are put together will also be included. Plans to travel the exhibition in the five-state region are currently being investigated. An illustrated catalog will accompany the exhibition.

Spring Lecture Series
Features Diane Herbort
We may be in the throes of winter, but the Lecture Series Committee has been making the preparations for an exciting Spring 1992 Lecture Series. This will be March 5, 6, & 7, and it will feature Diane Herbort.

Diane has taught workshops and presented lectures to guilds and at conferences across the country. Her work has been included in many national shows and has appeared in many of the quilt magazines. Her garments have been included in the spectacular Fairfield style show, a traveling fashion show of wearable art. During her visit with Minnesota Quilters, Diane will teach two workshops and present two lectures, and these will be held at Centennial United Methodist Church, Snelling Avenue and County Road C2 in Roseville.

On Thursday evening, March 5, at 7:00 pm she will present a lecture titled “Quiltwear: What Works and What Doesn’t.” It is Diane’s view on what makes a successful (or unsuccessful) garment and tips on how to create a truly wearable outfit that looks like real clothing—not a costume or something that belongs on a bed.

At 10:00 am, March 6, she will speak on “Old Glories: Breathing New Life into Old Textile Treasures.” Her “before and after” slides will answer questions about caring for and working with everything from denim to old ties, blue denim to buttons.

She emphasizes preservation of fine quality textiles, and she has creative ideas for use of stained and damaged items.

The first workshop will be held all day on March 5 from 9 am to 4:30 pm, and it is titled “Quiltwear 101.” It is a seminar-style class during which students do series of exercises on paper which explore fashion design elements such as color, fabrics, pattern styles and more. Even those who “can’t draw or aren’t creative” will learn the basics of designing beautiful garments. Workshop cost $25.

The second workshop, “Family Collage,” will be held on Friday afternoon and all day Saturday, March 6 and 7. The Friday class will start at 1:00 pm and go until 4:30 pm, and on Saturday the class will start at 9:00 am and finish at 4:30 pm. This is a wonderful workshop which will instruct on how to make a collage of fabric-transferred photos and documents which are set off with special items such as hankies, lace, and buttons. Written messages and decorative detail are added by free-motion stitching. The collage may be framed or sewn into a wall quilt. The cost of this workshop is $35. There is also an $18 fee for a special supply kit which will be payable to the instructor.

The Thursday evening and Friday morning lectures are open to all. Minnesota Quilter members must present their membership cards and they will be asked to pay $1 to attend. Non-members are requested to pay $2. The workshops are open to members of Minnesota Quilters only and your membership number must be included on your registration. It appears on your membership card.

Registration will be taken by mail only after January 15, 1992. Checks should be made payable to Minnesota Quilters, but sent to Laura Sahlberg, 834 Sherwood Ave., St. Paul, MN 55106. Phone 778-8065. Please write a separate check for each workshop.
